

China Compulsory Certification

The China Compulsory Certification, usually referred to as CCC or the 3C scheme, is the only national multi-sector market access system for China. Its purpose is to ensure safety of products and to minimize risks for consumers, operators, the general public, and the environment.

The CCC regulations are issued and implemented by the General Administration of Quality Supervision, Inspection and Quarantine of the PRC (AQSIQ) and the Certification and Accreditation Administration of the PRC (CNCA).

CCC applies both to imported and domestic products and is compulsory for all items listed in the Catalogue of products subject to compulsory certification. This catalogue is divided in 23 categories covering electrical and electronic products, automotive parts, selected healthcare equipment, agricultural machinery, selected indoor decorating materials, etc..

According to current regulations and under normal circumstances, the process for obtaining the CCC mark should not exceed 90 days.

Quality Partnerships LLC (QP) is here to help you determine which category your product falls under and which Chinese standards apply, and to ensure you obtain your certification in the fastest possible time.

The CCC registration is valid for 5 years and the renewal should be initiated about 3 months before expiration. Before leaving the factory, the products must be labeled with the appropriate CCC mark, either on the item itself, the packaging, or both.

CCC marks

CCC is a type-based approval; variations in product specifications will require separate testing and certification. Products that require CCC may also need other approvals, such as NAL and/or other licenses. QP is here to assist you and evaluate the best solution for minimizing the related testing and inspection time and costs, in order to have your product on the market in the shortest time possible.
